229. Non-stop tearing over the terrible thing that has happened, "May G-D have mercy on us", in the year 5682 the eve of Tuesday the second day of Shvat (31 January 1922). Ten men from the town of Minsk travelled here with merchandise. On the way on the seventh hour in the evening murderers had fallen on them by the village Dalhinoveh not far from the town Laseh, and killed seven men brutally and then burnt them. Three men survived, wounded. They escaped to the town Ozdeh. And these are the dead: a. The martyr r' REUVEN the son of r' BINYAMIN YALEVITZER twenty-eight years of age. b. The martyr r' YEHUDAH the son of r' ZEV BAGUSHAV [...] years of age. c. The martyr r' YITSKHAK the son of r' MENDIL BUNIN [...] years of age. d. The martyr r' AVRAHAM-CHAIM the son of r' [...] SHULMAN from HARESK. e. The martyr r' REUVEN the son of r' YITSKHAK HALEVY KANTAROVITCH. Two more men were buried in the town Laseh. The aforementioned martyrs were buried on Sunday the seventh day of Shvat (5 February 1922) here in the cemetery. They rest by the martyr URIYAH PERELMAN who was killed on Sunday the eleventh day of Tamuz 5681 (17 July 1921). They were buried according to the aforementioned order in row "martyrs" by the cave of the "shaimes" south side. The entire town was shocked over this terrible disaster. May G-D do only good and will never again rebuke in this way. May their souls be bound up in the bond of everlasting life among the righteous souls, May death be consumed... Amen.

My mother is Shifra Nakhmanovna Borukhovich. I have already written about her father, my grandfather, to whom I was most attached. Tall, slender, hunchbacked, dark-haired, good-natured - he lived near the town of Slutsk in the settlements - Ostrov. My grandmother Pesya was of a noble family, but impoverished, and she was married to a poor, but learned guy. Grandfather Nachman and his brother (Ynta Moiseevna's father) studied at the cheder and then at the yeshiva - this is a higher religious school. Grandfather had a general education above the average level, was by nature a cultured and charming person, respected by all in business circles and in the synagogue. They trusted grandfather, went for advice, went to borrow and borrowed themselves.

Grandmother Pesa was given a legacy of a fabric shop, in which she held out very little due to poor health. According to the stories, grandmother Pesya gave birth to 11 children, of whom I knew three - my mother, the eldest and beloved daughter Shifra, and the younger ones Malka and Mikhail. The other children were spoken of in whispers. One guy was mentally weak and left home, talked to the sea, and never returned. The rest of the children died in childhood from various diseases. I remember my grandmother was already sick. She died of kidney disease. She lay in bed weak and, calling me, asked - has the ice already gone?
